Teach in Guinea : An Internship That Changes Lives

Families serving in Guinea with Hope Ignited pour themselves into ministry, medical work, and daily life far from home. One of their greatest needs in this environment is consistent, high-quality education for their children. This is where committed teachers make an incredible difference, offering learning, stability, and encouragement to the kids who grow up alongside this mission work.

Under the leadership of Dr. Aaron Baldrige, teachers help guide students in a creative, multi-grade setting which has made a significant impact on their lives and the lives of their parents. We are grateful for the teachers who have served in recent years, and we continue to look for new interns who will contribute in their own unique way.

What This Role Offers

- An internship centered on service and growth
- The chance to live cross-culturally and experience West African culture
- A direct role in supporting missionary families serving in Guinea
- Comprehensive support including a monthly stipend, on-site housing, and mentorship from a seasoned educator
- An opportunity to see your teaching make a tangible impact
- If interested, opportunities to engage in Hope Ignited ministry projects outside of the classroom (medicine, church development, community outreach, etc)

Who We're Looking For

- Someone with a Bachelor's degree and preferably some teaching experience
- A flexible, collaborative person who adapts well to new environments
- A strong communicator with good organizational skills
- Someone who loves working with children and serving in a ministry setting
- Time commitment : 1 year

If you or someone you know are considering a meaningful internship or a season of service abroad, this role may be a perfect fit. Our teachers strengthen families, support ongoing ministry, and make a lasting difference in the lives of children. We'd love to talk with you about what it could look like to join us in Guinea!
